PRESS RELEASE

ADR Systems to open the Midwest's largest alternative dispute resolution center at 20 N. Clark St., Chicago.

Chicago, May 5, 2011: ADR Systems of America, LLC, the Midwest's largest private provider of mediation and arbitration services, announces the June 1st opening of its new offices and resolution center on the 29th floor of 20 N. Clark Street in the heart of Chicago's legal community. The 12,000 s.f. facility virtually doubles the size of ADR Systems' two current Chicago locations and includes a total of 16 conference rooms for mediation and arbitration, more than any other Midwest alternative dispute resolution center. The new facility signals the company's commitment to serving the growing need for arbitration and mediation by the legal community in Chicago and throughout the U.S.

"This expansion is a reflection of the overall rise in demand we have seen for alternative dispute resolution services as well as our company's growth in the management of commercial and tort dispute resolution," said Marc Becker, founder and President of ADR Systems. "As attorneys and their clients look for more ways to manage their litigation and resolution costs, they are recognizing the savings in both time and cost provided by mediation and arbitration. Our new resolution center will be the Midwest's largest and most efficient facility for providing these services.

Founded in Chicago in 1994, ADR Systems began by providing arbitration and mediation services in tort matters. In 2005 the company added commercial matters to its services and brought in Jennifer Morrow as Executive Director, to run the division. Today ADR Systems offers its attorney clients the Midwest's largest panel of 'neutrals,' prominent retired state court judges and skilled attorneys that specialize in dispute resolution from the simple to highly complex. Dispute categories include personal injury, business / commercial, employment, medical and legal malpractice, nursing home neglect cases, construction and engineering, intellectual property, securities and special master work, class- and mass- action administration and adjudication.
