

Trial by Judge Program

Features

Overview

ADR Systems is providing an expedited way to adjudicate disputes with our Trial by Judge Program. Under this program, parties have much more control over getting their case decided in a timely manner. The Trial by Judge Program is straightforward: Parties agree on a judge from our panel to serve as a neutral decision-maker in their legal dispute. They present evidence and their arguments to the judge, who will rule on the matter based on the facts and the law.

Privacy

While court proceedings are typically public, this program is conducted in a confidential setting and parties can keep their dispute private by agreement.

Benefits

Efficient Process

Our Trial by Judge Program offers a faster trial option than the public court system. When courts are backlogged or when parties need disputes resolved quickly, this program allows for more efficient and timely adjudication of disputes in a bench trial format.

Simplified Scheduling

Trials are often delayed. We simplify the process by starting with the most convenient scheduling options for parties, witnesses and experts. We make all the calls necessary to coordinate dates, and counsel are not burdened with this task.

Choice

Parties can agree to a specific judge and a specific date for their trial. This date will not change except by agreement of the parties.

Less Expensive

Our program can be a cost-saving option for your client. There are no court costs or costs associated with drawn-out litigation.

Flexible and Comfortable

Judges in this program have more freedom than is allowed in the public court system. Parties have more flexibility to tailor the process to fit the needs of those involved in the proceedings. This gives the parties more control over the process than they would have in the court system. The overall environment is less stressful and is less intimidating for the parties.

Support

ADR Systems provides full administrative support for your case to ensure a seamless process. Your trial can be heard in person, remotely or in a hybrid format. We will provide unparalleled service to you and your client throughout the proceedings.
